

Hongchuan Zhang-Krogman is a senior associate at Three Crowns LLP in Washington, DC. Hong's practice focuses on complex multi-jurisdictional disputes and she is qualified to practice in New York, Washington, DC and Singapore. She has experience representing private clients, States and State owned entities in commercial and treaty arbitrations in the US, Asia, Europe and Latin America, in the technology, energy, aerospace, mining, and telecommunications sectors, governed by various arbitral rules including the ICDR, ICC, SIAC, UNCITRAL and ICSID Rules. Hong started her legal career as a law clerk at the Supreme Court of Singapore and, prior to joining private practice, spent several years in Singapore's Attorney-General's Chambers representing Singapore in international disputes and negotiations and at international fora.