

Marcos J. Peña Matos is an associate at Jiménez Peña in Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, where he acts as counsel in international and domestic arbitrations, including proceedings to set aside or enforce awards, and in commercial, administrative and civil litigation before Dominican courts. He previously served as a staff lawyer at a public international law boutique in London, working on investment arbitration and public international law matters, and as a research assistant on Investor-State dispute settlement at Georgetown University's CAROLA. He holds an LL.M. from Georgetown University Law Center, with a certificate in International Arbitration and Dispute Resolution, and a law degree, magna cum laude, from Universidad Iberoamericana (UNIBE) in Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic. Marcos is a member of the Dominican Very Young Arbitration Practitioners (DOVYAP), the National Association of Young Business Leaders (ANJE), and the Spanish and Ibero-American Arbitration Club (CEIA).